Syntrax has secret operatives? Could it be?
<http://forum.bodybuilding.com/showthread.php?t=789088>

Sorry to clutter up the RANT thread with supplement bullshit. I just think everyone should be aware of the dishonest tactics used by this company. And there's even more stuff you don't know about.

Here's a fun picture of a new supp:

^^^Syntrax Hyper H - it's a lot cheaper, and contains much of the same stuff really. 200mg AA per softgel, 90 softgels per bottle.

my main question is, how much would i need to take in order to see good gains from this product? i'll order 2 bottles, but how many softgels should i take everyday? would 4 be enough or should i take 5 or 6?

thanks.

Actually it's not cheaper than X-Factor. Here on BB.com--the supporters of this forum--the price per gram is the same. The only difference is that Molecular Nutrition owns the patent on arachidonic acid which is in X-factor and Syntrax is violating that patent by selling Hyper-H. Another little detail is one of quality. The quality of the X-Factor caplets and ingredients is higher.

Its a very, very weak quality formulation, of which you are paying far too much for. And this is not a real multi-sourced protein formula. Its crap. Seriously. Coke tastes good too...and?

The same price gets you Xtreme Formulations Ultra Peptide (WPI and MC), ISS Research Pro M3, or a True Prot. Formulation using high-quality proteins liked hydrolysates and micellar casein.

This shouldn't even be a thread. How they continue to sell products given what they've done is beyond me...especially on this board. Where DC is banned. Think about the lawsuit with lipokinetix. The lawsuit over Arachidonic Acid. Thrive, Zima, SI03, Forge nutrition, creative compounds, syntrax, etc. etc. all the names for the same company.
Seriously. Just stop it.

I would have to bet it comes from the pieces of cookie. It is not going to kill you if you have some now and then. I agree you don't need to drink the stuff by the gallon but really who is dump enough to do that. Also on the fat content issue. I see people recommend Muscle Milk all the time which has alot more fat content than Matrix 5.0 does and no one is bashing them. I mean get real people you all are not happy with out something or someone to complain about. I guess it sucks for Syntrax, IBE and USP labs because it seems they are always the ones at the heart of every bashing no matter what they do. Oh well I am off my soap box now.

I don't recommend Muscle Milk at all, but it still has a much better profile.

As far as you getting on a soapbox for some of those companies...you think its just gang mentality and unjustified? Buddy. Please do not get me started. I have PERMANENT liver damage from lipokinetix. DC posts under hundreds of pseudonyms, is getting sued by multiple companies for theft. He has 8 shell companies and continues to "try" and reemerge on here with it. Find out why SI03 was started, evading money to paid out from health/death damages.

Companies not listing ingredients, changing spellings, prop. blends, not containing the actives, and writing deceptive pseudoscience.

Is all that a joke? Support what you want. You speak with your dollars.

No, the company is Satan embodied. Lawsuits, crime, death, illegal shell companies, etc. (Are you missing this).

WPC blows. That is not pound for pound either with lactose and fat. Oh and it really does blow for the lactose intolerant half of the country.

HFCS. Yes, sucks. As does the sucrose. Why not add more carbs to you milk fat. (then the lawn clippings)

I was one of the many that didn't come forward or try and pursue a case. I did get fatigue, lethargy and hepatitis (inflammed liver) during/after Lipokinetix...it got so bad I stopped using it altogether. Within a few weeks I then had EBS/Mono. I have had problems with it ever since. I take extremely good care of my body now and have a disciplined diet, exercise and supplement routine. Syntrax was one of the companies I thought could do no wrong and I believed in them. Much of this is actually what drove me to choose my career path. Sadly, I put just as much blame on myself for not having the awareness and knowledge...not having thoroughly researched it. The path that syntrax was on, with that and the injectible prohormones, etc. Questioning ethics is the tip of the iceberg. Then the 6 million names DC posts under and games that have been played with ownership, products, and posts here...it is morally reprehensible to support such a company. I believe that. I have nothing against the reps. Some of them seem quite good. The company itself is shameless. Since this "new ownership/old ownership" and renamed company...back to the old name...look at Hyper H, is that ethical? A company that will do anything to turn a buck, that will do illegal things and immoral things...you will support????

I have nothing but contempt for them and no matter what awesome flavor of nectar comes out, or whatever...I will never, ever buy one of their products.

1. Firstly, it is not the ways of SI03 to air dirty laundry, enter into childish debates, flame, call people or other companies names, etc, etc. It is also of no interest to us to respond to and thus perpetuate the childishness that has been going on here lately. It is for this reason that Syntrex and its reps have been very quiet on several of these threads.

No syntrex rep would enter childish debate for sure ! I think you should read the board sometime.

Thanks for the innovation about liver disease !

Why is a moderator of this board acting in such a despicable and cowardly manner? Make no bones about it, this is not whining and I could care less about some green blocks on the screen but what is a representative of BB.com acting like this?

As your best rep like to say now : Cry ?

so your first post is saying that Swole is the ABSOLUTE BEST creatine you've ever had, and now this? SHILL!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Does Syntrax seriously ever stop?

That's right up there with IDS' New Whey tubes that are mostly hydrolyzed collagen for protein (with a little splash of whey...which they throw in the name).

So most certainly...I give this one a thumbs up!

Don't forget the rotten egg protein!!
